M. S. Swaminathan School of Agriculture
R. Sitapur, Paralakhemundi-761211,
Dist. Gajapati, Odisha

Organized By

Centurion University of Technology &
Management
R. Sitapur, Paralakhemundi-761211,
Dist. Gajapati, Odisha

Prelude

Regional planning strategies, targeting specific areas for agricultural development are essential and effective instruments for bringing the needed change.

The state of Odisha encompasses land area of 15.57 million ha. The state has 3 distinct divisions – Northern, Central and Southern divisions. Of the 30 districts of the state, the Southern Odisha constitute 10 districts. The Southern Odisha is having 19.27 lakh ha of cultivated area under different field and horticultural crops besides fisheries and animal husbandry.

In 2011, South Odisha had a population of 81 lakh comprising 45.5% ST and 15.8% SC, with 17.4 lakh rural households and 2 lakh urban households. 90% people in the region live in the rural areas. Their livelihood is primarily based on subsistence agriculture, forest produce, wage labour and distress migration.

Realizing the need for agricultural development of Southern Odisha, the M. S. Swaminathan School of Agriculture, Paralakhemundi has planned a National Seminar to bring information on problems and prospects and suggest strategies to be adopted for its' development.

Seminar Topics

1. Agricultural growth in Southern Odisha
2. Natural resources of Southern Odisha
3. Problems and prospects of animal husbandry – dairy, poultry and fishery development in Southern Odisha
4. Rural development programmes – Some policy issues
5. Investment and credit potential in Southern Odisha
6. Forestry
