| Resource Person        | : Dr. Saurav Barman        |

About resource person: Dr. Saurav Barman works as an Assistant Professor in Centurion University of Technology and Management, Odisha, India. For more than 4.5 years, Dr. Barman had been practicing Organic Agriculture and promoting it across Odisha through various NGO partners. His area of expertise includes Soil quality testing and Fertilizers recommendation, Organic Agriculture and Vermicomposting and Composting.

About workshop: The workshop starts with the importance of soil quality to get better quality crops. The harmful effects of fertilizers and pesticides for a person. Agriculture with the use of agrochemicals in large amounts has, undoubtedly, resulted in a manifold increase in the production of farm commodities, but the adverse effects of these chemicals are clearly visible in the soil structure, soil microflora, quality of water, food, fodder and food materials. Organic farming is certainly an answer for creating a safe, good and clean environment, and the use of biofertilizers in preference to chemical fertilizers, offers economic and ecological benefits by way of soil health and fertility to farmers.

Objective: Hoped that the information provided in the course will alert and enlighten the farmers, students, scientists, professionals, entrepreneurs and others interested in organic farming Practices and certification.

Outcome: participants will be able to produce organic crops, grow and manage them and become well versed with Environment Health & Safety.
