About the Session

In this session it was discussed about Basketball at college levels developed from a structured, rigid game in the early days to one that is often fast-paced and high-scoring. Individual skills improved markedly, and, although basketball continued to be regarded as the ultimate team game, individualistic, one-on-one performers came to be not only accepted but used as an effective means of winning games.

Objective

- Guideline, rules and regulation of game
- Uniform guideline
