The program also focused on how to convert courses into publications. The session gave an overview of current efforts in drug development based on plant-derived natural products.

Outcomes: The program displayed some successful research done in the area of plant-based drugs.

- Preliminary phytochemical screening; Screening of Leaf
- Using Biovia software for research in the field of chemical research, BIOVIA is the best in the Class of Scientific Enterprise Software for Chemical Research, and Material Science R&D, designed to help product development.
- To connect with the courses taking publication as a priority rather than just the outcome of the course
- Holistic level experiment to development
