Report on
Job-Ready Version 2.1, Employability skills
27th February 2018

Employability skills can be defined as those soft skills which employers look for in a potential employee. These skills equip the employees to carry out their role to the best of their ability and client satisfaction. For example, the ability to explain what you mean in a clear and concise way through written and spoken means helps to build a better relationship with the client or the customer. Similarly, handling stress that comes with deadlines for finishing work and ensuring that you meet the deadlines can be done through effective self-management training. It can also be done by working well with other people from different disciplines, backgrounds, and expertise to accomplish a task or goal. In today's digital age, employers expect that the employees should be able to make use of elementary functions of information and communication technology to retrieve, access, store, produce, present and exchange information in collaborative networks via the internet. Students need to develop entrepreneurial skills, so that they can develop necessary knowledge and skills to start their own business, thus becoming job creators rather than job seekers. Potential employees need to develop green skills, which are the technical skills, knowledge, values and attitudes needed in the workforce to develop and support sustainable social, economic and environmental outcomes in business, industry and the community. Thus, students are expected to acquire a range of skills so that they can meet the skill demands of the organisation that they would work for or to set up and run their own business.

A Job-Ready version 2.1, Employability skills was organized by Centurion University of Technology and Management for the students of SoET on 27th February 2018 to meet the needs of the global audience as well as to provide education anywhere at any time. A total of 150 students attended the event.

Mock Sessions, 27th February 2018

A friendly platform was created to connect, learn, organize as well as to build up the skill competency among students to make them highly suitable for the job requirements in the market. The event was truly informative and enjoyable for the students which yielded them a lot of information on the present demands of the job market.
