Event Details:

On the occasion of World Ovarian Cancer Day, the School of Nursing, Centurion University of Technology and Management (CUTM), Paralakhemundi, organized an online awareness program on May 8, 2025, via Google Meet. The program was conducted around the global theme for the year: “No Woman Left Behind.” The goal of the event was to raise awareness about ovarian cancer, reduce stigma, and empower individuals with knowledge for early detection and support.

The event spotlighted the importance of understanding the personal journeys of women affected by ovarian cancer while also emphasizing the need for collective advocacy. Participants explored the challenges of diagnosis, the impact of community support, and the urgent need to close the gap in cancer care across different populations.

Seminar Highlights:

Students from the 2nd semester batch of B.Sc. Nursing led the seminar with heartfelt and informative presentations. They shed light on the various stages of ovarian cancer, its subtle symptoms, and the barriers many women face in accessing timely and effective treatment.

Through case studies and survivor stories, they illustrated the deeply personal nature of this disease.

The session resonated with the theme “No Woman Left Behind” by reinforcing the power of unity and collective action in improving cancer outcomes. It stressed the need for early detection, awareness campaigns, emotional and medical support systems, and equitable access to healthcare for women globally. The seminar encouraged future nurses to advocate for women’s health and become champions of awareness in their communities.
