Event Details:

On 25th April 2025, the School of Nursing at Centurion University of Technology and Management (CUTM), Paralakhemundi, observed World Malaria Day with an engaging and educational event aimed at raising awareness about malaria—a life-threatening but preventable disease that continues to affect millions across the globe. The primary objective of the event was to educate nursing students about the causes, transmission, prevention, and control of malaria, while promoting active student participation through a quiz competition.

Key Highlights

- The event commenced in the lecture hall with a warm and enthusiastic welcome by Student Coordinator Ms. K. Goutami, a student of B.Sc. Nursing 3rd semester. She addressed the gathering of students and faculty, highlighting the importance of World Malaria Day and the need for increased awareness, particularly in tropical countries like India, where malaria remains a public health concern. Her address set an informed and reflective tone for the day's proceedings.

- Following the welcome session, Student Coordinator Mr. A. Eswar, a dedicated student of B.Sc. Nursing 2nd semester, efficiently took charge of conducting the quiz competition, which served as the central activity of the observance. The quiz consisted of multiple rounds testing the participants' knowledge on various aspects of malaria including etiology, vector transmission, symptoms, diagnostic methods, treatment options, preventive strategies, and global efforts towards malaria eradication.
- The quiz witnessed enthusiastic participation from students of both the 2nd and 3rd semesters. Students worked in pairs and showcased excellent teamwork and competitive spirit. Their active involvement reflected not only their academic preparation but also their commitment to understanding the implications of communicable diseases in the public health system.

Quiz Competition Results:

At the end of the competition, the winners were announced and appreciated for their outstanding performance:

- 🏆 First Prize: Kiran Prasad Hota and Suman Gouda – B.Sc. Nursing, 2nd Semester
- 🥈 Second Prize: Nirupama Patnaik and B. Deepika – B.Sc. Nursing, 2nd Semester
- 🥉 Third Prize: A. Harika and U. Divyajyoti – B.Sc. Nursing, 2nd Semester

The winners received praise from faculty and peers alike for their excellence and quick thinking.

Acknowledgement:

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to Prof. S. N. Sandhya, Vice Principal, School of Nursing, Centurion University of Technology and Management, Paralakhemundi, for her unwavering support, valuable guidance, and constant encouragement in organizing the World Malaria Day event. Her inspiring presence and leadership were instrumental in motivating both students and faculty to actively contribute to the success of the program.
